

Rodney W. G.

African History from 1500 to the present

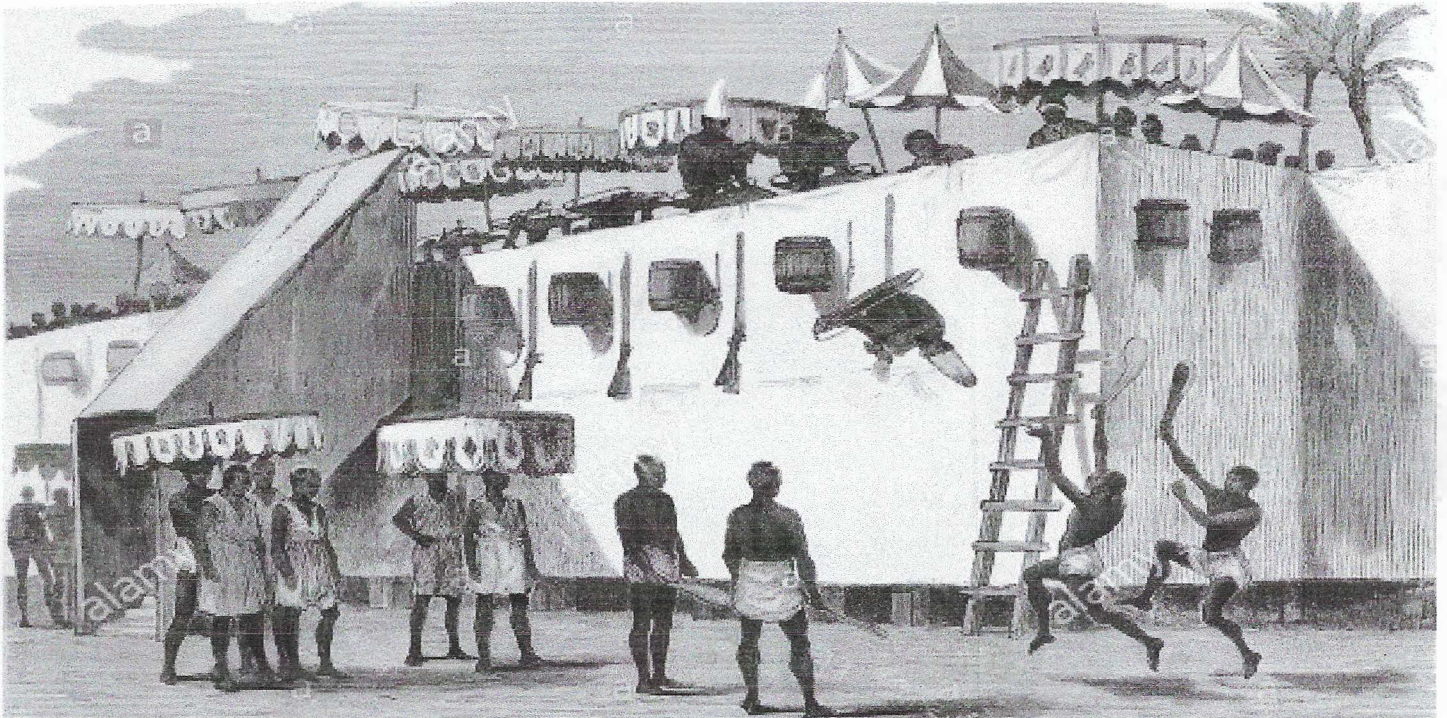

Borough of Manhattan Community College, BMCC

Professor Oluremi Alapo

Fall 2021

Pictures for my Final Essay

PRE-COLONIAL AFRICA'S BENIN MOAT WAS MUCH WIDER & LONGER THAN CHINA'S GREAT WALL

This is a picture story of a lost medieval city you've probably never heard about. Benin city, originally known as Edo, was once the capital of a pre-colonial African empire located in what is now Southern Nigeria. The Benin Empire was one and most highly developed states in West Africa, dating back to the 11th century. (Picture and information from Google).

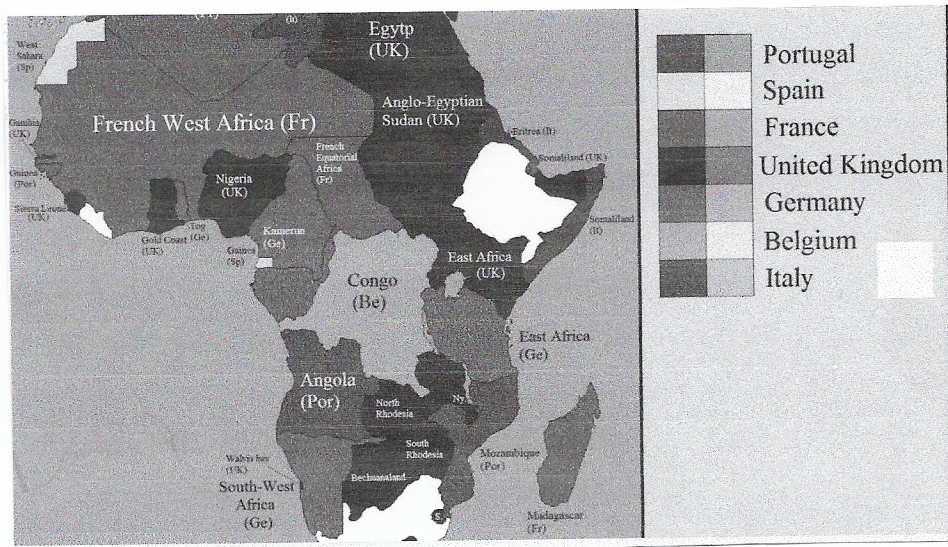

After the late period, Ancient Egypt was conquered by Alexander the Great in 332 B.C. During this time, Greek culture was at the peak of its influence throughout Asia and Europe. It was also considered a time of cultural decline in comparison to Classical Greece. (Information and picture gotten from Google).

THE AFRICAN SLAVE-TRADE—SLAVES TAKEN FROM A DHOW CAPTURED BY H.M.S. "UNDINE"

This is a picture of African people, destined for the Trans-Atlantic Slave Trade. However, they were freed and rescued by the HMS Undine, in 1841. (All information and picture gotten from Google).

This is a picture of how the worlds powers cut up Africa to their liking. And who was involved during colonial Africa.

A State in the grip of neo-colonialism is not master of its own destiny. It is this factor which makes neo-colonialism such a serious threat to world peace.

(Kwame Nkrumah)

izQuotes

Neo-colonialism: Here we have a picture of Africa's Greatest States man. Kwame Nkrumah. (Picture gotten from Google).

Boulevard Mohammed-V in central Casablanca.

Post-Colonial: Here is a picture of Boulevard Mohammed-V in central Casablanca in to days time.
(ALL INFORMATION GOTTEN FROM GOOGLE)